What is F.A.I.R. Solutions?

Mediation services to empower you to work together to find win-win solutions to resolve your conflict with dignity, where both your needs are met.

45 Minute FREE Consultation/Orientation for Individuals in Dispute

If you are married, or unmarried, and your relationship isn't working, and you are interested in taking steps to change your situation for the better, mediation can be a very useful and non-threatening (high value/low risk) alternative for you.

If you know you are divorcing or ending your (unmarried) relationship, mediation will help you do that in the most amicable way possible, finding win-win solutions to help you have a new future with the least amount of conflict and animosity. (Particularly as you determine how to divide any mutual assets, and parent your joint children in two homes).

If you are divorced, most divorce decrees require mediation to resolve disputes, before going back to court. Post-decree mediation is another service offered.

Most people are not aware that mediation exists. For those aware of mediation, they are not sure how it works, and they often don't know that attorneys are not needed to fight through the process. To learn more about how mediation might work for you, call for your FREE (no obligation) 45 minute consultation, where you will learn more about how mediation is an alternative to divorce attorneys or counseling/therapists. Mediation is much more cost effective than litigation.

Couples are encouraged to meet together for 45 minutes, but the time may be split up into two half-hour time slots.
